Come out and hear Peck's most distinguished son with your presence.

The examining trial of Wm. Bolton, charged with the offense of breaking into the Linn Peck grocery store at Center-town, was held before Judge J. P. Miller yesterday. At the close of the evidence introduced by the Commonwealth, the defendant, by his attorney B. D. Ringo, moved the court to dismiss the case, which was sustained and the defendant discharged.

Mr. Wm. Smith and wife, of Hadley, Warren county, will arrive in Hartford next Saturday on a visit to friends and relatives. They will stay at the Hotel Raleigh Springs and other points in the city. This old couple had many relatives and friends here when they left this section in 1853, and they came back to renew old acquaintances and kinship. We expect to hear from them a generous welcome.

Arrangements have been made for the county to enjoy during the last week of the best lectures ever delivered in Hartford. The author of Peck's Bad Boy lectures Monday evening, Prof. Wm. L. Bolinger, Wednesday evening, and Prof. Aaron V. Bennett, a great popular educator, Thursday evening. We hope that the people will take advantage of this opportunity to hear some of the best talent of the country.

Mr. C. R. Thomson, of Horton, met with a painful accident while on his way to Hartford last Monday morning. He was driving a young horse by his buggy when he was nearly thrown from the seat by the horse becoming frightened. He was thrown from the seat and his head struck the ground, causing a painful injury. The horse did not get away, but was caught by another party. Mr. Thomson, after a short delay, came on and, aside from a few bruises, seemed to be all right.

The following marriage license has been issued since our last report: John C. Thomas and Julia D. Walker, W. F. Schumacher and Fannie E. Casbeer, Victor J. Jernigan and Jennie Mosley, W. Taylor and Bettie B. Buchanan, N. E. Brown and Minnie Wells, M. L. Landrum and Mattie Cummings, John Martin and Annie Davis, Mrs. R. F. Morrison and Horace Rogers. James G. Miller, defendant, vs. R. F. Simmons, R. B. Hill and Ethel D. Harris.

On Monday, August 1, 1898, at the court house in Hartford, will be offered for sale at public auction, six tracts of land, which will be described by a full description of which may be found from posted bills. It will be sold by the sheriff, under order of court, in the case of Charlotte Morton, ad. ex. p. plaintiff, vs. John C. Thomas, defendant. It is the well known Thompson Morton land, noted for its fertility and good situation, and should bring a good price. Parties desiring to invest in profitable real estate will find this a good opportunity.

The story printed on the first page of the Herald today about Quaintville's death through Ohio county in 1894 is substantially correct, with the exception that there were only three and not twenty men killed. The tree on which Townsley was hung is still standing on the Haverhill road, about five miles north-east of Hartford. It is dead, however, having had a brush burned around it. Lawton was about four miles further on. It is not known whether Barstow witnessed the killing of his comrades or not, but it is supposed that he at least saw it. He did not see it, as he was called upon to lead the last. The two other Federal soldiers mentioned left the crowd before the killing commenced.

The whisky election contest case of Hartford was heard before the court board here last Monday. The members composing the board were Judge J. P. Miller, Esquire W. A. Rose and County Clerk M. S. Bagdad. The trial was rather a tame affair as there was no fight made by the contestants, there having been a fatal error made in the record preparatory to the submission of the question to the esteemed Hartford board.

The order for holding the election was made at the same time the petition, asking for the election to be held, was filed, when under the law it should have been over one term. We are informed that another election will be asked for and held at once as the necessary preliminary steps can be taken.

One of the alleged job printers of Ohio county, in talking with a Herald reporter of the day ago, made the remark that when he was called upon to bid up on a job of work, he was always asked to produce a good sample of his work. Of course, meaning at the other end as to what the price should be to the customer, and when a fellow guesses a plenty to cover the cost of the work, he is not a job printer, but a man who is honest and fair.

When you come to THE HERALD office you get a price on what a job of printing is really worth, at lowest figures. With an experience of twenty-one years, we know what a job is worth and also how to do it right. We do first-class printing at very low rates.

HORSE BRANCH, KY.

There were added playing ball. There were also and dancing and other sports of the kind. Around the ground were peeping. At the horse branch Saturday, Jack O. gave the signals and the swiftest was up-to-date, no collisions or demerits. Arch didn't swing the girl he was looking for. Perry led the boy and the girl of the hill. They didn't come outside and put him out. Seed ticks and chiggers held an extraordinary session at the same time and place.

Section Foreman Carter took the sick horse to the branch and the swiftest was up-to-date, no collisions or demerits. Arch didn't swing the girl he was looking for. Perry led the boy and the girl of the hill. They didn't come outside and put him out. Seed ticks and chiggers held an extraordinary session at the same time and place.

Mr. W. P. Allen is very low with nervous trouble. Mr. W. L. Grever and Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Grever are visiting in town. The time for electing a man to Congress is drawing near and working men should be it that he is one who will go to as "boodlers" and his name, saying "aye" or "no" as they bid him. The bid arrived for every man to read and interpret and his opinion to show his eyes and open his ears to the song of the politician, regardless of the experience of the man who is bidding.
